The comments were generally positive, thank you. Elliptic curves were particularly popular and there were requests to do more on them. This is somewhat I would like to do, but it is difficult because a lot of theory has to be developed beforehand.

There were a few complaints about audability, visibility or some explanations not being clear, these are best raised at the time. Tutorials are also an opportunity to ask question about things you did not understand.