Unit Survey – feedback on comments - Sem 1-2015/16

MATH10101 – Ray

In response to comments on lecture notes:

The handwritten notes that I post online are meant to be close to what I write on the board during lectures. As such, they are, at best, an outline of the material; the detailed course notes are precisely the relevant parts (which are clearly indicated) of the course textbook, which is also online. Students who want further problems should consult the book -- an important skill in its own right. Past exam questions, with solutions and detailed marking schemes, are available on the course webpage throughout the semester.
